WEATHER KEY POINTS

12/11/19 - 12/17/19

Wednesday

- A weak storm will continue across northern California today
  - This storm will generally bring light valley rain and mountain snow, but no significant impacts are expected

Wednesday Night-Sunday

- A series of storm systems will continue to move across the northern half of the state through at least Saturday, possibly lingering into Sunday
  - High snow levels (7,000-8,000 feet) will limit any significant travel impacts in the Sierra through Thursday, though lower snow levels (about 5,000 feet) and accumulating snow are possible late Friday through Saturday night
  - Rainfall across northern California will be moderate at times, but no significant flooding impacts are currently expected
- Damaging surf and minor coastal flooding are possible across portions of Southern Region due to large, long-period swell Friday into Saturday

Monday-Tuesday

- Drier weather is possible to begin next week
